

FORECASTERS ARE STUMPED ON STATES IN FARM SECTION

Dutcher Says Wisconsin Will Undoubtedly Go for Alfred E. Smith

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series of seven articles outlining the political situation in the various states as election day nears.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—(AP)—Iowa has 13 electoral votes, Wisconsin 13, Minnesota 12, Kansas 10, Nebraska 8, North Dakota 5 and South Dakota 5.

Hoover undoubtedly will carry Iowa and Kansas. Wisconsin is likely to vote for Smith. Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska has come out for Smith, and the result in Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas will be difficult to forecast.

Farm relief, prohibition and religion have been made the most important issues in this great agricultural section. It is a nominally Republican region, but it is most irregularly Republican, for it has sent to the Senate La Follette, Norris, Shipsteads, Fraziers, Howells, Brookharts—in fact, by far the greater portion of the Senate's progressive bloc.

In the five states called doubtful, Smith is running strong, and the Democrats have claimed all of them at one time or another. Representatives of the farmers in these states led the "farm revolt" before, and at the Kansas City convention.

Some of those leaders, notable non-office holders, have bolted from Hoover. Now it is up to the farmers themselves. There has been some defection, of course, but "farm revolts" are notoriously unreliable, as was proved in 1924, and the Republicans say they aren't worrying in 1928. They admit that Smith strengthened himself on his western invasion, but they are sure that he didn't change anywhere near as many votes as he needed.

It may be significant to point out that the combined Davis-LaFollette vote in 1924 was 25,000 more than the Coolidge vote in Nebraska, 9,000 more in North Dakota, 210,000 more in Wisconsin, 25,000 less in Minnesota, and 1,000 more in South Dakota. Figuring from a base of past performances, one is confronted with the puzzle of figuring just how many LaFollette votes Smith can get, how many Republican votes he will win and how many Democratic votes he will lose.

Wisconsin has shown affection for Smith from the start. Senator Blaine's declaration for Smith was an encouraging boost. Senator La Follette's silence is regarded as tacit acquiescence with Blaine. Wisconsin is wet and insular. She has a Catholic population of about 25 per cent, considerably more than any other state in this group. On the other hand, she has been nominally Republican. Many of her La Follette voters, of 1924 are sure to vote for Hoover, it is easy to see, however who the Democrats have such high hopes here.

Nebraska is the state most likely to be affected by the announcement of Senator Norris. Democrats claim Smith has appealed to most of the German voters all along. The Lutheran Synod and the State Federation of Labor is out for Smith. Smith's Omaha farm relief speech sounded good to many Nebraska farmers. But Senator Howell and Governor McMillen have been campaigning for Hoover, and the Norris delay in declaring for Smith encouraged organization leaders.

Smith's anti-prohibition attitude and his religion are serious handicaps to him in those regions where farm discontent might otherwise turn the tide for him. Only Norris could deliver Nebraska to Smith, and perhaps not even he.

The great handicap in the farm states from the Smith point of view is that in ordinary years there is no Democratic party to speak of. Minnesota, for instance. There the national organization has undertaken to create an emergency machine, sending Senators Wheeler of Montana and Wagner of New York to the scene.

Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborer, is expected to be re-elected over a Republican, and the Smith managers have sought to get a mortgage on his vote for their national ticket. To this end the Democratic senatorial candidate was persuaded to withdraw. Farmer-Labor papers have been saying nice things about Smith, but Hoover has most of the Minnesota press.

In North and South Dakota each party seems to be depending on the prejudice against the other's candidate. The farm issue has hurt Hoover, and the prohibition and religious issues have hurt Smith. The tendency has been to regard both states as more likely to go for Hoover than Minnesota. In both the Democrats seem to lack organization and out-Christians leaders. That Iowa and Kansas will go for Hoover is questioned by hardly anyone.

FOUR TROOPS GOING TO BOY SCOUT CAMP

Four valley council boy scout troops will join in celebrating Halloween at Camp Chickagami valley council scout camp on Lake Winnebago at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. They are troops 2, 4, 11, and 13. The boys will meet at the Methodist church parlors and are to be taken to the camp in cars. Plans originally were made to have two parties. Troops 2 and 13 were to combine and have a party in the Methodist church parlors and Troop 11 was going to camp.

A program of games and stunts is being arranged. A ghost hike through the camp will be the feature of the program. Scouts of Troop 11 will stay at the camp overnight, returning in time for school, Thursday morning, according to Mr. Clark. Members of other troops will return Wednesday evening.

Wettengel, acting postmaster, stamp collectors from all over the state and from many states outside Wisconsin have sent letters here to be stamped and returned to them.

Most of Mr. Verhagen's expenses was for printing cards. A. G. All candidates must file campaign expense statements by Saturday.

To Demand Two Trials In Murders

Lawyers Prepare to Obtain Separate Hearings for Harsh and Gallogly

Atlanta, Ga. —(AP)— Separate trials for George Harsh and Richard Gallogly, wealthy college students, who are charged with murdering two holdup victims will be sought by their attorneys when the youths face a jury Nov. 13.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee authorities sought to link Harsh with a fatal holdup there Sept. 15, under the impression that Harsh was in that city and had the use of his mother's car and chauffeur at that time. The youth is the son of a late shoe manufacturer of Milwaukee. Gallogly is a member of a well-to-do Atlanta family.

Although there was no indication Wednesday that more than the six lawyers in two firms had been retained to defend the youths, Clarence Darrow in New York Tuesday once again commended that he would emerge from retirement rather than sit by and watch the court beat over the lives of the pair if he were asked.

DARROW NOT ASKED
It had previously been announced by attorneys for the youths here that the families were considering that, to request Darrow to join them when the case came up for trial. No further announcement was forthcoming.

Harsh signed a confession last Saturday that he and Gallogly participated in seven holdups in October, during which E. H. Meeks, a grocery clerk, and Willard Smith, a drug store manager, were fatally wounded.

He said they were both drunk at the time and conceived the holdups as a means of getting a "thrill." Police said Gallogly had partially confessed orally to driving the holdup car. Harsh took full blame as the actual slayer in the confession.

The youths were indicted within two days, and their case was set for trial in Fulton Superior court for Nov. 13 when counsel will resort to the strategy of separate trials which will force the state to elect which shall face a jury first.

PROBE IN MILWAUKEE
Milwaukee —(AP)— With the confession of George Harsh, Atlanta, Ga., "thrill" slayer, that he was in Milwaukee this summer until between Sept. 25 and Aug. 1 Milwaukee police Wednesday were trying to connect him with the fatal shooting of Emil Mussweiler, 74-year-old grocer, in an attempted holdup the night of Sept. 25.

CHANGE SEATING ORDER OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

A redistribution of convocation seats has been effected in the Lawrence Memorial chapel and college students took their new places Wednesday. Previous to this time, men were seated on one side of the building and women on the other, with freshmen in the front and seniors at the rear.

Under the new seating arrangements men and women will sit together. The senior class occupies the first 17 rows to the depth of five seats in the left center section of the chapel and the rest of the front center division is taken up by the juniors, filling the first 19 rows to the depth of six seats. The freshmen are seated along the left hand section under the balcony and the sophomores occupy the same section on the right.

The change comes as a result of student suggestion originating in discussion meetings of Blue Key and Pan Prex and is aimed at a more orderly arrangement of chapel seating facilities. Henceforth seniors and juniors will leave the building first by the two center aisles and the freshmen and sophomores will file out in the two side aisles.

BUILDING AND GROUNDS COMMITTEE WILL MEET

Members of the buildings and grounds committee of the county board will hold a special meeting Monday afternoon at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, at the courthouse. Bills will be allowed and the committee will prepare a report of its work for the last year, which will be presented to the county board at its session which starts Nov. 13.

The boys, one of whom confessed, are Richard G. Gallogly (top) of Atlanta and George Harsh of Milwaukee. Harsh is said to have admitted firing the shots.

URGE CITIZENS TO VOTE IN MORNING

Women Especially Can Relieve Situation by Voting Before Noon

"Vote before noon" is the admonition of members of the city council building and grounds committee who are viewing with alarm the prediction that this year's election will be the heaviest in many years and that voting places in the city probably will be crowded all day.

In past years the greatest vote has been cast late in the afternoon and during the evening according to Mike Steinhauer, chairman of the city committee, and if such a thing happens again this fall the congestion in voting places will be terrible.

Many women who never have voted will cast their ballot this year and should be able to do so in the morning when the polling booths normally are empty. If women at home make it a business to vote during the morning hours they will help the situation greatly, according to Mr. Steinhauer.

SMITH CAN'T CHANGE DRY LAWS, SPEAKER SAYS AT GREENVILLE

200 Farm Residents Hear St. Louis Judge Urge Election of Herbert Hoover

"Although I am a wet myself I want to point out that if Alfred E. Smith is elected president he cannot affect a change in the prohibition laws because of the united opposition of 148 southern Democratic members of Congress," declared Judge Henry A. Corning of St. Louis, Mo., in an address at Hein's hall in Greenville Tuesday evening.

More than 200 farm men and women heard Judge Kersting urge the election of Herbert C. Hoover, Republican nominee for president. Judge Kersting said farm relief is one of the most important issues of the campaign and that Mr. Hoover was best qualified to solve the problem.

"Agriculture is due for attention at the meeting of congress on December," the judge said. "Hoover's efforts were always in the interest of the growers of the crops in this country. He has been, is now and always will be the friend of the farmer. His ability to solve the rural problems of crop marketing is not equaled by any other person in this campaign."

Claiming that Mr. Hoover was a great humanitarian and a friend of the Germans and other starving nations following the World war the judge pointed out that food was being sent to Europe on Hoover's orders before the ink was dry on the peace treaty.

W. J. Zwick, chairman of the Outagamie County Republican club which sponsored Judge Kersting's appearance in the county, presided at the meeting.

When C. C. Nelson, secretary of the organization, attempted to urge the voters to support Walter J. Kohler, Republican candidate for governor, the crowd drowned his words in a storm of applause. Stanley A. Stahl, candidate for district attorney, made a short address.

WOMAN'S CLUB BRINGS BALLET DANCERS HERE

Doris Niles and her brilliant ensemble of ballet dancers will appear in Appleton Nov. 14 under the auspices of the Appleton Women's club. The ballet dancers are assisted by the Rondalla Usandizaga guitarists, a sextette of players brought to America from the Basque province of Spain especially to tour with the Doris Niles Ballet, and an orchestra of 11 men, some of whom have been chosen from the New York symphony orchestra. Miss Niles' sister, Miss Cornelia Niles, an artistic solo dancer, also will appear on the program.

Doris Niles, who looks like a native of Spain, and who last year scored a triumph when she danced before the king and queen of Spain, offers a varied and colorful program, elaborate and dazzling costumes, artistic scenery, and novel lighting effects constituting an important feature of the performance. Much of the music used during the program has been written especially for her dances, but selections by Bach, Strauss, Grieg and Rubenstein also are used.

The personnel of the company includes 27 artists, and Appleton people who have seen a Doris Niles performance in Milwaukee acclaim it a fascinating ensemble.

Doubt Self-Torture Tale Of Teacher In Illinois

Lake Bluff, Ill. —(AP)—Self-torture by fire to prove her faith in a "spirit love" was advanced Wednesday to explain the strange case of Miss E. Frieda Knaak, 30 year-old Sunday school teacher and book agent.

It was a weird, uncanny explanation, full of holes and wide open to practical-minded police skepticism, but it came from the lips of Miss Knaak herself, lying near death from burns mysteriously inflicted in the basement of the Lake Bluff police station sometime Monday night. Physicians were unconvinced.

"To believe her story," said Dr. A. J. Risinger, attending her, "you would have to believe these facts: 'That she first placed one foot, then the other, in the furnace and kept them there for some little time; that she thrust her head and arms and held them there under what certainly must have been terrible pain. The fire box is only 12 1/2 by 8 1/2 inches.'

"It does not seem possible that a person, even in a trance, could do that. Muscular reaction alone would cause her to jump back from the flames."

The name of Charles W. Hitchcock, 45, married and the father of four children, was brought into the night frequently cried out: "Hitchcock, why don't you come to me?"

"Who did this?" said the state's attorney, bending over the girl's cot. "Did it myself, for faith, for purity," was the response. At intervals, the officers obtained her story. She had known Hitchcock four years.

It is possible, police said, that the girl may have gone to the furnace room for warmth, and that she may have been attacked by some vagrant who himself had gotten into the basement to keep warm during the chilly night.

The janitor found Miss Knaak standing up, her face and body blackened by the fire. Her forearms were burned to the bone, her hair was burned from her head, and the heat had seared the flesh of her forehead through to the skull. She was leaning against a pipe by the furnace when the janitor saw her, and the sight sent him running upstairs, screaming for help.

Hitchcock, his leg in a cast, was unable to clear up the girl's story.

McCormick, secretary of the Wisconsin state Teachers' Association, around the council table.

Details of the plan are not yet ready to be made public, those in the conference said.

WESTERN UNION MAY SEND PHOTOGRAMS, MANAGER REPORTS

Local Office May Install
Equipment to Use Phant-
tom Circuits

It is expected that before long the local office of the Western Union Telegraph company will install equipment which is being used extensively in the larger telegraph offices throughout various countries to send photograms and to handle telephotograms, according to Walter Storch, manager. Several months ago the Western Union company announced the signing of contracts with the American Telephone and Telegraph company by which the former company was permitted to use the so called phantom circuits of the telephone company.

Since then the telegraph company has instituted two new services. The first is known as the photogram service and consists of a communication to the addressee from the sender written or typed in black ink and delivered to the addressee in photographic facsimile. Not only is there an exceptionally large novelty use for photograms by persons desirous of seeing their handwriting transmitted over the wire, but this service is also a boon to Chinese, Hebrews and Greeks and other persons who may have experienced difficulty in writing telegrams in other than the character of their native language.

The other service, the telephotograph, is in larger commercial use than photograms. One can obtain photographic reproduction by wire of documents, pictures, drawings or any article of matter which can be photographically reproduced.

Various financial houses make frequent use of telephotographs. Not only do they employ this service to transmit rapidly and accurately advertisements of issues of securities which must reach distant points for simultaneous publication, but they also use the service to transmit statements, balance sheets, and business papers which contain a large amount of figures.

Chemists transmit complicated chemical formulae by telephotograph, engineers have gotten into the habit of sending mechanical drawings and plans by this method, and advertising agents transmit layouts to distant points by telephotograph. This service has also frequently been used to obtain affidavits, contracts, legal papers and documents which are required in a hurry.

BETTING ODDS 4 TO 1 IN FAVOR OF KOHLER

Milwaukee —Betting odds in Milwaukee, where thousands of dollars are being wagered on the outcome of the forthcoming national and state elections, are overwhelmingly in favor of Walter J. Kohler, Republican candidate for governor.

The Republican nominee is listed as a 4 to 1 favorite in most of the haunts of the bettors, with few takers to be found at that price.

It is only on the question of how large a majority Mr. Kohler will have over his Democratic opponent that the betting fraternity are getting at all excited. Estimates of this majority range from 50,000 to 250,000, with the bets ranging from even money to odds of 3 to 1.

Another evidence that Mr. Kohler is regarded as a "sure thing" in the election next Tuesday is found in the fact that his name is included in all the parleys, in which are linked the names of three or four candidates rated as certain of election, with even money offered that all of them will win.

CLAIMS HOOVER AIDED GERMANS

Senator Brookhart Says G.
O. P. Nominee Fought to Feed Women and Children

Fond du Lac —(AP)—The assistance in feeding the German people following the Armistice in 1918 and the battle fought to gain permission to give food to German women and children by Herbert Hoover were reviewed by United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa in an address here Tuesday night.

"Mr. Hoover was not only making these heart-rending appeals for the starving Germans and for the American farmer, but he supported them with the courage of desperation," the Senator said. "He continued to buy the surplus farm products in the Food Administration and even to load it on ships which he started for Europe without knowing whether they would even have a landing place, and he maintained the farm prices as the farmers had fixed them and as he has promised to do."

Senator Brookhart then told how the Republican candidate succeeded and raised the German blockade on March 24, 1919. He said Mr. Hoover had 65 shiploads of American farm products ready to land or on their way.

"Thus he found a market for the surplus farm products which he had bought at the price promised the farmers, and saved the starving women and children of Germany and Austria at the same time," the speaker said in referring to Mr. Hoover.

"The work which Hoover did is remembered by the whole people of Germany," and acknowledged by every important leader of the German Republic," the Iowa senator concluded.

SPORTSMEN WOULD ESTABLISH WILD GAME PRESERVE

There is some talk among sportsmen of Appleton making an organized effort to establish a wild game preserve somewhere in the vicinity of Outagamie-co. Several prospective sites have been mentioned among them the swamp along the Wolf river in the town of Horton; a large tract of wild land south of Medina near the county line; and another tract of marsh north of Onond. It is believed that the sportsmen considering a matter will call a meeting of interested persons in the near future.

PLAN STUDY COURSE FOR TROOP COMMITTEEMEN

Plans are being arranged by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, for a two night training course for troop committeemen interested in conducting courts of honor. The course will consist of various scout activities and methods and requisites for court of honor examinations.

An appeal is being made by Mr. Clark this week to organizations sponsoring troops to recruit five men on each committee so that the court of honor proceedings will be complete. Several troops have only two or three committeemen while five men are required, according to Mr. Clark.

Blanchard, with Dr. T. E. James as passenger, was the first to cross the English Channel by balloon, and Colonel Fred Burnaby, a century later (1882) the second.

Who is this? This is General Avocado.
What is he doing? He is fighting a war.
I don't see any war. Of course not—the war hasn't started yet.
Why hasn't it started yet? Because the general hasn't finished his CHICOS.

PRESIDENT'S RACE MAY BE DECIDED BY 7 DOUBTFUL STATES

Religion and Prohibition Are Big Issues in Districts
Where Fight Is on

EDITORS NOTE—This is the third of several stories outlining the political situation in various sections during the closing days of the campaign.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Tennessee has 12 electoral votes, North Carolina 12, Kentucky 13, Missouri 18, Oklahoma 10, Virginia 12 and West Virginia 8.

Broadly speaking, they all come under the category of "doubtful" state. By almost any method of computation, Governor Smith needs at least six of them to win the election. On the other hand, it is quite conceivable these seven states might defeat Hoover.

The consensus of opinion among political writers and politicians now seems to be that Hoover's chances are bright in Oklahoma, Kentucky and West Virginia and that Smith has an edge in Tennessee, Missouri, North Carolina and Virginia. Even money bets, however, are being made in most of these states.

In 1924 Coolidge carried West Virginia by 31,000, Kentucky by 24,000, and Missouri by 76,000. Davis carried Oklahoma by 29,000, Tennessee by 26,000, North Carolina by 93,000 and Virginia by 66,000.

In these states prohibition and religion seem to be the most important issues, with some difference of opinion as to which is swaying the most voters.

Democrats have been worrying about Oklahoma ever since the Houston convention. Oklahoma votes Republican whenever it likes. It is dry and Protestant. It appears to be sour this year on the Democratic state administration and the Hoover organization has functioned more smoothly than Smith's, which has been alarmed by numerous bolts such as those of Ex-Senator Owen and the Tulsa Tribune.

Smith went to Oklahoma to deliver his speech on intolerance and nearly all reports agree that it had no great effect. Some trend back toward Smith lately has been claiming the state by from 50,000 to 75,000.

Both Hoover and Smith made speeches in Tennessee and Smith's chances were subsequently thought to have improved. Here the Republicans are divided factionally, the Democrats have an effective organization and the racial issue has been dragged in against Hoover to meet the religious issue. Governor and Senator McKellar, both dry and both renominated this year, are leading the fight for Smith. The result is likely to be close.

In Kentucky, which also has the religious issue, both parties are exploiting the race problem. Dry Senator Barker and the state ticket are warring for Smith, but the Republicans are confident and the Democrats only hopeful.

Two or three months ago it was commonly said in Virginia that the state would go for Hoover if the election were held then. Virginia still may be considered doubtful, but there has been a trend toward Smith, according to observers on the ground. Bishop Cannon has been the principal Hoover campaigner, but has been bitterly fought by Senator Glass and Governor Byrd. The religious issue has been worked overtime against Smith and a reaction to it is said to have developed. Many Virginia politicians expect the election there to be the closest within their memory.

The same seems to apply to North Carolina, where the bolt of the powerful Senator Simmons put the result in doubt. Rumor, religion and race are described as the only real issues. While the Republicans pin their faith on Simmons, Smith hopes to be saved by Governor, McLean and Josephus Daniels, both dries. Present betting is that North Carolina will persist in its tendency to remain regularly Democratic.

Virtually all Democratic figuring on Smith's chances to beat Hoover count in Missouri's 18 votes. There farm relief enters the picture along with prohibition and religion. A month ago the Democrats set out to campaign especially against religious prejudice, believing that the drift to Smith in St. Louis and other wet territory would give them the state if they were successful. St. Louis is conceded to Smith, but rural Missouri will make him or break him depending on the size of its majority for Hoover.

The same probably goes for West Virginia. Republicans have been worrying about defection of their negro voters, but appear to be confident. Senator Neely and his Republican opponent, former Governor Hatfield, are leading the fight for their respective national tickets. The bolt of many Democratic women has militated against Smith, but Hoover supporters are probably too optimistic in claiming a record-breaking Republican majority.

Rabbits Increase In Spite Of Heavy Hunting

BY B. A. CLAFIN

I don't believe there is a single species of our wild game that is more universally and more persistently hunted than the rabbit, and yet these animals seem to hold their own under half way favorable conditions. It is true that nature has endowed them with remarkable breeding propensities, but I do not attribute their ability to survive the yearly onslaught made upon them by an army of hunters to that alone. The great areas of natural cover, due principally to the low, swampy places found on almost every farm and throughout the Indian reservations, enable them to maintain themselves. Being entirely herbivorous they never suffer from a lack of food, although when the snows are deep they sometimes damage fruit trees by gnawing the bark. This, however, is not so much due to the lack of other food, as it is their fondness for this particular food.

The hunting of rabbits is one of peculiar pleasure, sans the hardships of wildfowl shooting. You are on firm ground, your movements are free, and you may travel as far as you like or take up a position on some elevation and wait for the dogs to bring Bunny to you. The air is crisp and healthful, and the mere appearance of the varicolored woodlands is enough in itself to warrant a trip of this kind by anyone.

About ever so often some bugbear appears to cause apprehension on the part of those who enjoy the chase. Just now it is "Tularemia" in rabbits. This is supposed to be some property of the fur which may cause an infection of the hand that touches the animal. But, I wonder how many farmer boys know anything about Tularemia, or how much attention to it they would pay if they did? They hunt rabbits persistently throughout the season. It is one of their greatest forms of sport.

One thing I have noticed about the rural hunters, however, is their preference for coarse shot, say number 4's or even larger, for shooting rabbits. Why that is I cannot say, but I do know from actual experience, that a load of number 7's will do the work far better. Nor is a heavy load of powder at all necessary. Bunny is a tender animal and succumbs very easily.

One of the best places I know of to find rabbits in profusion is the low, brushy region near Galesburg. From Briarton, take the first road to the left north of that town and drive to where you come to a creek that winds down thru the bottoms. Anywhere in this neighborhood you will find rabbits galore. And there are miles and miles of territory over which you can hunt unmolested and you will very seldom, if ever, meet with any other hunters, although you may hear the distant baying of a hound occasionally.

STATE TO IMPROVE 50 GRADE CROSSINGS

Traffic Will Be Closed or
Diverted, Highway Engineer Reports

Madison—(AP)—H. D. Blake, highway department grade crossing engineer, has announced that the state highway commission will close or divert traffic from nearly 50 railroad grade crossings by construction work with the close of the third quarter of the fiscal year.

To date, he says, nearly $50,000 has been supplied by railroad companies toward the cost of grade crossing work and he adds that when negotiations now under way are completed, an additional $100,000 will be available.

There are eleven highway bridges over tracks under construction and seven track bridges over highway being built, according to the engineer. In addition, Mr. Blake says, two highways overhead and three subways are being reconstructed. The rest of the projects involve relocations of state highways to divert motor traffic from grade crossings. Long delays are frequent in the work, Mr. Blake says, because of building time and the interim during negotiations between the highway commission and the railroad company. A large part of the delay has been eliminated, he adds, through a cooperative procedure fostered by the commission.

The future plan to get money for the work is through completion of surveys a year or more before the proposed construction season. Mr. Blake says this plan is being adopted and a number of surveys for 1929 projects have been completed. Among the new surveys that have been opened are ones at Baraboo and Shorewood. Several relocations to divert traffic from crossings also have been completed.

A total of 2976 languages spoken throughout the world is given by an expert from carefully compiled statistics from the various countries.

POLITICS IN WISCONSIN

One of the most unprincipled and vicious campaigns ever resorted to in Wisconsin is that which seeks to prevent the election of Walter J. Kohler as governor. It commenced in the primary and it has never ceased. It has sought by vilification and misrepresentation not only to encompass his defeat but to blacken his name.

Mr. Kohler submitted his candidacy to the people as a respectable and respected citizen. Nothing has been brought out reflecting upon his character or citizenship, and if there were the slightest thing upon which to question either it would have been dug up by the politicians who have hounded him from start to finish.

There is nothing to show that he lacks the qualifications for the office of governor, that he is unfit personally or otherwise, that he would not give the state conscientious and constructive service; on the contrary, his private life, record and achievements testify to his entire competency for the responsibilities of governor, his integrity, his fidelity to the public interests and his progressive spirit.

The reasons for this venomous and unprincipled attack upon a clean and able citizen of Wisconsin are fundamental. They rest upon the assumption that he has no right to aspire to public office without the permission of a small coterie of professional politicians who have arrogated to themselves political power in the state and who claim the authority of telling the people who shall and who shall not hold office. Their treatment of Mr. Kohler has been identical with that accorded Mr. Zimmerman, except that it has been carried to greater extremes.

It would be the same with any candidate who sought office against their will and self-appointed prerogatives. If a Democrat threatened to defeat their candidate at the polls they would be just as bitter against him as one of their own party. This year they are training with the Democrats because it suits their personal purposes and ambitions. If they can defeat Kohler through a Democrat they will turn around two years from now and denounce and defeat this Democrat with one of the select members of their own little clique. They have no interest in government of Wisconsin by Democrats. If they cannot win and enforce their will through the Republican label they go over for the moment to the Democrats in reprisal. It is anything to gain their personal ends.

The only plausible reason they have advanced why Mr. Kohler should not be governor of Wisconsin is that he is a man of wealth. If it were not that it would be some other manufactured reason. The attack upon Mr. Kohler because he is a "millionaire" sums up completely the case against him; there is nothing else to fall back upon. It is designed to catch the ears of those who listen to the constant tirade against the successful and well-to-do, to the ceaseless propaganda to promote class distrust and animosity.

Is Wisconsin to set up the doctrine that men of means shall be debarred from public office? If that is the spirit of the people the inhibition should be incorporated in the constitution. We ought to be frank in our prejudices, intolerance, and un-Americanism, even if we should be ridiculed and despised by the rest of the Union.

Mr. Kohler was once a poor boy, like thousands of boys in Wisconsin today who aspire to self-improvement and dream of a larger life. He worked in a factory. He saved and did his work well. He gradually advanced through hard effort and skill to his present position at the head of a great business.

No man worth his salt who does what Mr. Kohler has done forgets his childhood or loses his sympathies for the struggling and less successful. True, he is quick to recognize merit and character, but he understands the life and the hopes of the multitude. Mr. Kohler has proved this by building up at his place of residence a model industrial city, with more comforts and ease and wholesome surroundings for his employees than in almost any other American industrial city. He adopted the eight-hour day long before it became the established rule. He has been a pioneer in this and numerous other enlightened measures for the benefit of labor.

Is that kind of a man unfit to be governor of Wisconsin, after making good from a penniless and humble origin? Whether he has a million dollars or not, is that an honest, sensible or legitimate reason for closing the honors and responsibilities of public office to him? Must public office be reserved exclusively for professional politicians? Are professional politicians after all to be preferred to men of standing and means, even if they have a million dollars? Is not outstanding and honorable success in private life the best possible guarantee of faithful and honest public service?

Tomorrow we will discuss further the political warfare on Mr. Kohler's candidacy for governor.

HEFLIN AND OTHERS

Is there any good reason why the country should raise such a furor merely because Senator Heflin has permitted the Anti-Saloon League to use his franking privilege as a member of congress to flood the country with its literature to defeat Governor Smith for the presidency? Heflin is Heflin and the country knows him as a bigot. And because of its misconduct, particularly in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, in aligning itself with some of the most vicious elements in the community the Anti-Saloon League has long since ceased to command the respect which once followed its course.

But there is no difference in principle between Heflin sending out great truckloads of literature at the dictation of the Anti-Saloon League and Congressman Berger heating up a cold speech of two years ago with which to flood Wisconsin in the interests of the Socialist party or any other of our galaxy of congressional stars doing the same on the eve of an election.

The franking privilege was given to congressmen for the purpose of sending out bona fide proceedings in congress presumably shortly after they occur, for the good purpose of informing the people of what is going on in legislative halls and keeping them in close touch with governmental proceedings. Congressmen know this purpose as well as anyone else. They know that the government must pay the railroads to carry these millions of pieces of mail to be delivered by our sometimes weary but always loyal mailcarriers. And if they took the time to consider they would know that the actual cost to the government of the United States, even were the congressmen to pay for the cost of printing which is so seldom done, and merely in the instances where "only the postage is free," mounts into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The franking privilege has been plainly prostituted and by the men who know that they are merely attempting to serve personal and selfish purposes when they use it as they are using it. If this thing is to be continued under the law as it is written, should not the people at least be spared the sanctimonious nonsense from these congressmen about the expenditure of money in political campaigns when that expenditure is aimed solely at the purpose of trying to educate the electorate to the facts and to meet and try to overcome the handicap which congressmen have given to themselves by the misuse of their franking privilege?

A sobbing woman, according to dispatches, held up a poker game in New York the other night and got away with $2,000. That's new; still, many and many a poker player has been relieved of all his winnings after the game by a sobbing woman—and she didn't need a pistol to do it, either.

The college football season is just about to open and college presidents now will be swamped daily with letters from alumni, half of which will protest bitterly against "over emphasis" while the other half will want to know why in thunder good old Swash can't turn out a decent team.

Odd, isn't it, that neither of the presidential candidates has yet thought of the scheme of carrying Iowa by corraling all the Iowa voters out in southern California?

John Galsworthy says the keynote of happiness seems to be unselfishness. The secret of happiness in this country seems to be the same, with the "self" left out.

There's a man not a thousand miles away from here who is absent-minded. The other day he went into a barber shop, looking at a string his wife had tied to a button-hole in his coat to remind him that he was to get a haircut. He got into the barber-chair and gave his order. The tonsorial artist looked bewildered. "If you insist," he said, "but pardon me for reminding you that I cut it about two hours ago."

BIRTH GREETINGS

The little girls in the offices of Harry Menzel, deputy of the Wisconsin Industrial commission at the Appleton Vocational school weren't satisfied with the old, old song of "Happy Birthday to You" which is usually sung to those who have managed to survive another year of existence on this green earth. The sweet little things spent one hour of their precious time (Mums the word to Herb, the director) in creating what they think is the latest in birthday songs. They dedicated to Harry, Monday. Here it is:

A slap on the shoulder!
A grip of your hand!
So you're one year older,
Don't that beat the band?
Your heart is no colder
You feel just as spry
If you're one year older—
Well, then, so am I!
—The Cub.

THE WORM HAS TURNED

A bunch of kids in front of the vocational school were raising Cain around the main entrance about 9 o'clock one evening. One of the instructors came out of the building to see what the rumpus was about. One kid pipes up "Say—Is my pa out of school yet?" —Arlene Wearie.

Not long ago I heard a dealer giving some instructions to a new clerk. Said he: "When a lady customer comes in, you ask her the size of her feet. She says for example six. You say, Oh no. Five will fit you. Then fit her with an eight."

THEY KNOW THE TRICKS

THE SEASIDE VISITOR sought the landlady of the house where he was staying and began to make complaints. She listened until her patience became exhausted. "Please don't think I'm ignorant," he wound up. "I know all the tricks of your trade. Do you think I've lived in boarding houses for fifteen years for nothing?" "I shouldn't be surprised," replied the landlady, coldly.

CROSS EXAMINATION

George Clark, a celebrated Negro minstrel, on one occasion when being examined as a witness, was severely interrogated by a lawyer. "You are in the minstrel business, I believe?" inquired the lawyer. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Is not that rather a low calling?" "I don't know but what it is, sir," replied the minstrel, "but it is so much better than my father's that I am proud of it."

The lawyer fell into the trap. "What was your father's calling?" he inquired. "He was a lawyer," replied Clark.

WHERE DO YOU GET THAT ACIDOSIS?

The other day I explained where, in my judgment, the laity got the "blood pressure" obsession and the now happily waning "neuritis" fad. With these preliminaries briefly stated, I hope neatly disposed of, I set my rarely brushed but withal not bad teeth of the program for the day, namely, a determined effort to disentangle acidity from acidosis in the popular mind. Acidity, you will please understand, is, in any case, confined wholly to the digestive tract—the stomach, duodenum, jejunum, or even the throat if there is belching or regurgitation. Acidity has no bearing upon the acid-base or acid-alkali balance in the blood.

Acidosis has nothing whatever to do with acidity in the stomach. Acidosis means a retention or an accumulation of acid combustion products, metabolic waste, in the blood. By no sign or symptom can the individual with acidosis even suspect that he has it. In this respect it is so different from acidity that apparently impertinent question here comes quite pertinent—where do all these physically healthy if mentally morbid people get their acidosis? Let us dispose of this question at once and go on with our argument. The well folk get their imaginary "acidosis" from reading freak "health" literature, particularly the bait used by false "food specialists" and shady nutrition experts in attracting customers. Give a wiseacre without an elementary knowledge of physiology a plausible suggestion about the acid character of certain foods and he will be so impressed with this inside information that you can make him believe almost anything if he is due to "acidosis."

Acidosis, in fact, is a disease at all. It is merely a feature, a state of the body, noted in various sicknesses. Altho one or another type of acidosis may accompany an illness associated with disturbance of the digestive functions, after all we have no reason to assume that the character of one's diet is a factor of any practical importance in the development of such sicknesses. To say that, at least in my opinion, no one gains anything by trying to select a diet that opposes acidosis. On the other hand I believe a good many disgruntled persons suffer real injury to health from restriction in the diet inspired by the acidosis obsession.

If human physiology were decimated by a plague in the elementary schools, every school boy would know that meats, eggs, cereal products, peanuts, plums, prunes and cranberries yield acid combustion products (the three fruits containing benzoic acid which is not oxidized in the body); that milk is about neutral in this respect and that potatoes, bananas, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, apples, lettuce, all the fresh vegetables including tomatoes, and all other fresh fruits and all the green or relishes, yield an alkaline or base combustion product. But if this same school boy were required to have a working knowledge of elementary hygiene he would know also that a healthy person should not discriminate against any food or class of foods on such account, and a sick person should leave the question of diet to the judgment of his physician.

That, I think, is all an intelligent layman should know about the acidosis question.

Might it be said, in a casual way, that drug store clerks conduct sundae schools?
Judges' voices often carry conviction.

A doctor ordered Senator Curtis to rest his voice the other day. Republican leaders are said to be seeking the doctor with a view to having him examine Mrs. Willibrand.

NOT A DOLLAR HOG

Editor Post-Crescent:—Through the courtesy of the Crescent's open Forum I wish to reply to the gentleman who signs himself as a Methodist in regard to Clarence Darrow.

Darrow defended a union printer by the name of Schmidt in the dynamiting of the Times Building in Los Angeles. It is so long ago that I cannot recall the exact date, but it was one of his first cases. He received $400 which was all the local Union could raise at that time. The McNamara Brothers were brought into the case by Wm. J. Burns, he of the Sinclair jury scandal. Burns induced the McNamara's to plead guilty and implicate Schmidt. Schmidt got a life sentence and is still at San Quentin. The Macs also got life, but two years later they could not be located in either of the California prisons. Many Californians' look upon it as a framed job on Burns and the McNamara's part. Darrow was never in danger of disbarment in the Haywood-Moyer and Pettibone case in Idaho, charged with the murder of Steinhilber during a strike of the Western Federation of Miners. Darrow fought for those three innocent men long after the minors funds were gone. Six months and eighteen days in fact, and finally landed the real murderer who turned out to be a Pinkerton strike breaker, Harry Orchard by name. The man who tried to railroad Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone was William Borah now Senator Borah who was then States Attorney. Darrow has fought many labor injunctions free of charge to my knowledge. He also offered to defend free of charge John Dietz the defender of Cameron Dam here in Wisconsin and John Dietz deplored the fact many times that he did not accept the offer. No my method friend you cannot accuse Darrow of setting the dollar up as his God. You can rightfully call him a free thinker or even an infidel but a Dollar Hog never.

COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS

Editor Post-Crescent:—Prosperity in abundance, and Outagamie County is in the lead. Recent reports show that crops through United States are very satisfactory, and prices correspond. Reports from the leading corn producing sections indicate that the 1928 crop is expected to reach the enormous sum of 2,930,000 bushels. It is estimated that 80 per cent of the crop will be consumed by domestic animals. It is clearly shown, that the hog will take the lead in consumption of corn, consuming about 40 per cent of the total. It should be the policy of the producers of pork not to over crowd the heavy hog. The discrimination against the heavy hog will likely be very noticeable during the future. The markets require, not too much fat, but more lean meat. The young or light hog should be fed with utmost care. Feed them all they can consume with profit, not over feed them, and get them fit for market at the age of 6 or 7 months with weight of upwards of 200 pounds. The season of 1928 has been a favorable one for crop production. The corn crop will exceed by more than 68,000,000 bushels the 1927 crop. The potato crop is estimated to be 32,000,000 bushels compared with 24,000,000 bushels for the year of 1927. It is further conceded that the Wisconsin cabbage crop is unusually large and the stock is firm.

The cool weather have been all that was desired in maturing the crop. It is further noticeable that in a general way, the eastern crop was very limited. Consequently the market demand for cabbage will be large and price satisfactory. Present prices paid at this writing are $18.00 per ton with the exception of hay, all other crops not here listed are up to the average. In view of the above facts it would appear that, supply and demand controls the market situation, and this price fixing by government committees as has been recommended would simply amount to only nothing less in the future.

MEN'S WEAR

WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
TAD THORNE and VALERIE WEST are married in a little chapel by the sea, with grandeur and a great deal of hollowness.

"It's like Val," thought SYBIL THORNE, whose own love affairs had made plenty of talk. "She's making it seem complicated, but that doesn't make any difference. It comes untied these days, however elaborately it's tied."

Sybil, who worships her brother, is exceedingly unhappy because she dislikes Valerie. Her engagement to CRAIG NEWHALL, still her also with forebodings. Because, though Craig is fine and wealthy and handsome, Sybil does not really love him. Years before, her sweetheart, JOHN LAWRENCE, marched away to war on the eve of their marriage—and never returned.

Convinced that she can never be happy again, Sybil became engaged to Craig to make her dying father happy. But Mr. Thorne was dead before she could tell him and now Sybil does not know what to do.

Val and Tad go to Canada for a wedding trip and Sybil goes alone to their summer place at Wannan to prepare for the homecoming of the newlyweds.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX
The town was full of memories. The beach where Sybil had walked with John Lawrence. The lawns about the house where they had strolled in the moonlight. Everywhere she went a shadowy figure walked beside her. A tall, slim boy in khaki, with hair like gold and lovelight in his eyes.

It seemed to Sybil that she was close to John there, where she had learned to love him, than she had ever been anywhere else.

At night she found the place on the beach where he had kissed her first. And she stood, as she had stood that night, with her face to the sea, while the wind whipped her dress about her and blew her hair where John's cheek should have been.

Then she put up her arms to nothingness and raised her face to her phantom lover.

"Whatever I do," she whispered, "I'll love you still. Forever and forever."

The mist was rolling in on clouds when Craig found her on the sands. A little huddled figure, watching the tide creep up. He had driven down when Mrs. Thorne told him that Sybil was there for the night, working with a charwoman from the village.

"I'll drive her home if she'll let me and down again first thing in the morning," he promised. So he had hurried there and finding the house deserted, had sought her on the beach.

"Sybil," he cried when he saw her there, "are you crazy, dear? It's cold as the devil out here and damp. What are you doing, mooning away all by your lonesome?"

"Thinking about you," she lied lightly.

"Honest?"

He took her hand fondly and she could see how happily he smiled. Poor Craig. It was so easy for her to please him. Only a little word of affection—a loving smile.

"Sit down," she invited. "I want to tell you something."

He put the coat he carried about her and she pilowed her head against his shoulder.

"Craig I'm the unhappiest girl on earth."

"I know honey."

His arm about her drew her gently closer.

"No, you don't, Craig. You think it's because John is dead and daddy. And now Tad married. And mother and I at sword's points, because we don't speak the same language. But that's not all of it, Craig. It's something inside of me, like poison. I don't know, exactly. Something that makes me bitter and rebellious—and miserable! Oh, Craig, you don't know."

"I think I do, dear."

"Oh, it's dreadful, Craig! Everything's all gone wrong. My whole life. It's something worse than losing PEOPLE. It's losing EVERYTHING. Ideals and dreams. . . . and hope."

"There's such an all-gone feeling. As if the bottom had simply dropped out of things. I wish I could make you understand."

"I do understand, Sybil."

"Craig, I'd make a rotten wife."

"You're a morbid little sweetheart, I'll say that for you."

"But I'm dreadfully serious, Craig. I don't think I ought to be married . . . feeling the way I do."

"You're all upset right now, honey. It's sort of a reaction after the wedding. You're tremendously high strung, you know? You let things affect you too much. Valerie's been getting you goat. I knew she would, from the minute I laid eyes on her."

"Tad's probably made a mistake. But after all, that's his funeral. If you could only learn to take things as they are. But you're always rebellious. Seething inside all the time. Popping off like a little firecracker."

"FINE FOR CHILDREN!"

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. bling with the other cattle. Torn by greed and sex. Reproducing ourselves. The endless procession. On and on. . . . What's it all about?"

"Sybil, there's a poem of Oscar Wilde's—a beautiful thing called Panthea. And it begins like this: 'I am too young to live without desire. . . .'

Too young are thou to waste this summer night. Asking those idle questions which of old Man sought of seer and oracle, and no reply was told. . . . Vex not thy soul with dead philosophy. Have we not lips to kiss with. Hearts to love and eyes to see? . . . 'Sybil, I want a kiss.' And when she had given him her lips, she settled herself again in her arms. 'I guess I'm getting old, Craig. I haven't had an honest-to-God thrill in ages.' 'That's a nice thing to tell me!' 'Well, it's the truth,' she insisted. 'Remember how I used to run around? I kidded myself that I was having a pretty good time. But now—Lord, Craig, I couldn't get any more kick out of a roadhouse than a prayer meeting. Bootleg liquor and country club flirtations give me a pain in the neck. Life's lost its zest. I'm all fed up.' Craig stiffened. 'I'm sorry that I am so utterly inadequate.' . . .

Instantly she was contrite. 'Oh, darling, I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. It isn't YOU. It's I. You're adorable, Craigie.' 'Then marry me, sweetheart.' Sybil drew her knees up under her chin.

"And now," she remarked, surveying the ocean, "we're back where we started from."

"Please, dear."

"I told you I'd make a rotten wife."

"I know you did. But I want you just the same."

"I tell you what I'll do, Craig. Resolutely she faced him. 'Mab Blake is going to Havana next week. Wretched time for it, I suppose. Rainy season, or something. That's why Mab's going—they've cut the rates in half. And you know Mab on bargains. She's been trying to get me to join her. A month's trip. Mother's been urging me to go ahead. And Tad and Valerie will be home next week. 'I can't make any decisions, Craig, with you around. And mother is so disquieting. I simply cannot do it. Mab's a tranquil old Jane. Thirty-four, and getting sour. You know how it is with social workers. She'll keep me out of trouble. Perhaps the rest and change would help me. Whole days on the ocean. Peace and quiet. It couldn't hurt, Craig. And it might help. What do you say?'

Maybe it was the wind from the sea that made Craig shiver. Maybe it was Doubt's cold fingers laying hands on him. He lit a cigaret, and as he held the match to his face Sybil thought how pitiful he looked—how weary and defeated. If she had loved him enough she would have taken his head in her arms and kissed his weeping lips. But she raised them, instead, to the leaden sky, where one bright planet gleamed.

"Star bright, star light," she cried. "first star I've seen tonight! Wish I may wish I might get the wish that I wish tonight. And I wish," she told the heavens with great solemnity, that Mister Craig Newhall will see the advantages of Miss Sybil.

Thorne leaving immediately, if not sooner, for Cuba."

Craig shifted his weight heavily from one elbow to the other, like an old man.

"It's the way life is," he told her. "You don't care enough—that's all. Not that I blame you, Sybil. God knows we can't love where and when we would."

"But Craig!" she cried. "That's not fair. I do love you—only—I'm all mixed up inside. Oh, Craigie, dear, what's the use of talking. I won't go if you don't want me to. I'll do exactly whatever you say."

"The devil you will!" he retorted grimly. "You'll do whatever you want—and you darn well know it." (To Be Continued)

What DID Sybil do? Something adventurous, of course. It's in the next installment.

SENSATIONAL NEW-TYPE GUM

NOW READY FOR THIS CITY

Business romance seen in new product which became, in four months, third largest seller in America

By Walter Pierce

THEY said there was no room on the market for another gum.

Otto Schnering, president of the Curtiss Candy Company, and maker of the Baby Ruth Candy Bar (3 million a day) did not agree.

He set out to make a gum as superior in quality as his famous candy. He imported pure chicle from Central America. He used whole milk and pure cane sugar. His own experts select the mint he uses.

His aim was to get into a gum more of the cooling, refreshing peppermint flavor than ever before. A flavor that would last three times longer than ordinary gum. A flavor that couldn't be chewed out.

How he succeeded in Baby Ruth Gum is one of the romances of modern business. Even today, thousands of cities, whole states, have not been supplied. The demand has been too great. Yet, in four short months Baby Ruth Gum has become the third largest seller in America!

Now Baby Ruth Gum is for sale locally in stores everywhere. The same flavor that has taken other cities by storm. A flavor, dealers declare, that will give you a real surprise.

Zippy as a brisk Fall day! Real mint—the finest money can buy—and plenty of it, gives Baby Ruth Gum the peppery flavor you can't chew out. Never before has a flavor met with such popularity!

Paul Ash, "the Rajah of Jazz," and Miss Annette Solomon call on Baby Ruth Gum for refreshment between shows

Endlessly these great trucks roll out of the gigantic Curtiss factories with shipments of Baby Ruth Gum. The demand is without parallel in the history of the business

Otto Schnering, president of the Curtiss Gum Company, surrounded by his little friends at Moosheart, Ill. He gives his personal pledge that every ingredient used in Baby Ruth Gum is the purest and best obtainable

THE NEW Saint Sinner

"Oh, Mademoiselle! Let me present Professor Arkwright. Mother invited him especially to meet you. Professor Arkwright teaches Latin in our high school here. You two pedagogues ought to have lots in common. . . . Professor, this is Mile. Dumont, who taught me French at Bradley. Now, Pat, you can run along and help Peg receive the Hamiltons," and Tony smiled her sweetest, most daughterly smile at her scowling, handsome father as she took his chair beside Mile. Dumont for the gray-haired, fussy-looking little Latin teacher.

"I'm sure Mademoiselle won't miss you. She and Professor Arkwright are soon going to be deep in a discussion which you couldn't understand a word of, you darling old ignoramus!" Then, as her father strode hastily away, after giving his dutiful daughter a look that should have withered her, "Look how he hurries back to Peg! He's really the most devoted old thing. I suppose every girl thinks her parents are just about perfect, but I know mine are! . . . Will you excuse me, please?"

"Certaintment!" Mile. Dumont spoke with bitter emphasis. Tony, after curtsying and smiling gaily, fluttered away happily to help her father and mother receive the four other couples who were arriving almost simultaneously, with middle-aged punctuality. There were the Harrisons, from the next block; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hemingway—the lovely Mrs. Hemingway who had once been an actress; and Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Pruitt. It had been Crystal who had begged that the Pruitts be included, since, if Mile. Dumont was to be routed, her "boss" might as well see the dead end and profit thereby, however unwillingly.

Within half an hour there were three tables of bridge, to which the players had settled down with the deadly earnestness that marks the middle-aged confirmed addicts of the game. Crystal and Tony, freed temporarily as "little rays of sunshine," looked in upon the drawing room

Household Hints

DEVILED EGGS

Deviled eggs served with canapés as an appetizer before dinners, are twice as attractive if you put the mixed yolks through the pastry tube in fancy patterns.

UNBROKEN STALKS

If you open canned asparagus from the top, the stalks will slip out without breaking. It is much more attractive unbroken, whether used in salad or creamed.

EASILY BEATEN

Add a pinch of salt or sugar, either one, to egg whites that you are beating. It aids in quick beating.

BERRY BRUSH

A small vegetable brush is invaluable in helping to force berries, grapes and other small fruits through a sieve.

from the doorway, whispering gleefully.

From Tony: "Such luck, darling! I thought I'd burst with joy when Mile. said she couldn't play bridge, and Professor Arkwright, already headover heels, the poor thing, ecstatically acknowledged that he couldn't either, so they two could just sit and talk!"

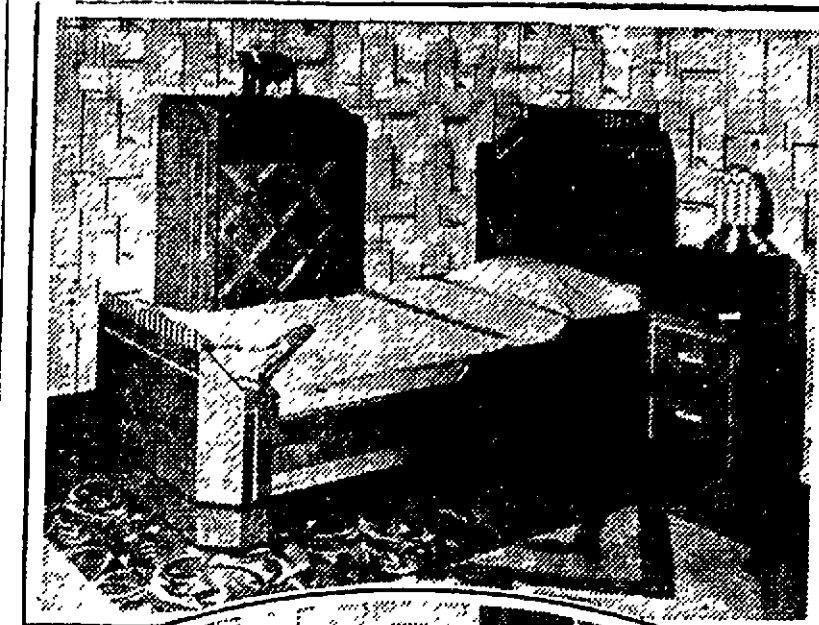

"And it was killing the way you kept him trotting away from her to trot to your mother on some service or other. I'll bet Peg thinks the world's coming to an end. Pat is so awfully attentive! Of course he could stay you and I advise you not to eat anything tonight, if Mile. has a chance to slip out to the kitchen first. The fair Eloise has murder in her eyes. . . ."

"Oh, Pat's dummy, and he's making a bee line to Mademoiselle! He looks as if he may pick up poor little Professor Arkwright and drop him out of the window. . . . Oh! Mr. Pruitt's dummy at his table, too. Bet he'll join Mile's court. . . . Of course! I wonder how she does it, her age!" Poor Crystal could not help reflecting that she could not "do it" at her age. . . .

"Look how adroitly she handles Pat and Mr. Pruitt together," Tony whispered. "Well, I guess it's up to little Tony to say something else awfully sweet and considerate to dear Mam'selle. Come to my rescue if she suddenly decides to throttle, me, Cryss."

NEXT: Tony and Crystal "carry on!"

Modernism Is American; Reflects Personality

—Courtesy Modern American Decorative Arts Exhibit, N. Y.

Angles, lines and circles are used in dozens of different ways to decorate everything in the man's modern room pictured at the top. From the silver and tan wall paper to the deep brown rug with touches of green, all designs are geometric. Below, for a more conservative modern, this bed takes a severe design for its frame, with artistic inlays of silver wood and ivory in billowing arcs.

NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK — Modern art has angled and circled its way successfully into the very dreams of contemporary America.

For, in all the interiors done in the modern manner with geometric designs, nothing is more happily executed than modern bedrooms. Especially is this true in bedrooms for the American boy or for the American man.

Simplicity of line, inherent strength, comfort and a charming blending of colors to give life and yet subdued beauty to the scheme—these are some of the qualities of modern bedrooms for men.

NOW DESIGN OUR OWN

America now fashions its own modern furniture, without relying upon Europe for design, materials or color schemes. From the delicate new modern wall-paper, carpets and rugs, through the whole house down to the least candle stick used at dinner or the after dinner coffee spoon, one can have a 100 per cent American home, done in the modern manner.

And in fashioning its own things in contemporary manner, American manufacturers take into consideration the characteristics of those who will use the various things. Furniture and furnishings for men's rooms, for instance, reflect the comfort, practicality and interesting design Americans like as background for their personalities. Decorative schemes employ the soft nuances that today produces, but use colors that avoid any suggestion of effeminacy.

GEOMETRIC FIGURES

Browns, tans, soft greys and silvers are the favorite backgrounds for men's bedrooms. Of course there are lively touches, red, yellow, blue or green. Angles, circles and other geometric designs are the starting place in most decoration on modern things. But ingenuity in design produces some very interesting figures that seem remote from a simple angle or circle.

In a bachelor's room, for instance, the entire motif of design is some geometric figure. The wall paper is a soft silver with an intricate, almost invisible, pattern in browns and grey, with a little touch of green. The carpet of a brown four-ply as can be.

The bed is the outstanding piece of furniture, a very restful, comfortable, low swung bed of finely grained maple and birch, with a geometric design inlay in silver lacquered wood and ivory. The sides of the frame and the two ends have step-downs, like sky-scraper, only they are done more gracefully on the slant.

There is a novel chiffonier of matching woods, with an inlaid front of great beauty in a lattice effect, with silver, ebony and ivory. A low bedside table, with modernistic lamp atop it, has two deep drawers for economy's sake.

For a man who avoids too much novelty, another bed has almost severe outlines and an inlaid silver pattern in gently curving arcs. This bed has a checked coverlet in tans and silver and u. : the new colored sheets in a very masculine tan shade.

DIET RULES FOR CHILDREN FOR EVERY DAY USE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Which I worse, not to give a child the things he should have, or to give him things he should not have?

Both are perhaps equally bad. One causes malnutrition and disease; the other causes indigestion and disease.

A few don'ts in the case of wrong feeding, like the sober second thought, are always essential and seldom wrong.

Don't give a child fried food of any kind.

Don't give him any pastry such as pie or cake, made with butter or other shortening. Butter changes its composition when cooked, especially when added to sugar. A little plain sponge cake, without butter, or cookies without butter won't hurt him, however, after he is 16 months old.

Don't give him hot breads, pancakes, or hot rolls unless he is over 6 years old.

Don't give him sausage, veal, dried meat, dried fish, or pork, under 6. Bacon, however, is good for him, also beef, lamb, chicken and fresh fish.

Don't let him have tea or coffee.

Nut pastes are good for him, but nuts should be given sparingly and chewed thoroughly and slowly.

Never give a child old food that has stood and perhaps become contaminated. Warm over foods are never any too good for anyone. Laboratory tests will show that an old cooked food, fermentation begins within a few hours.

See that all cereals are cooked thoroughly. Under-cooked cereals are hard to digest.

Some vegetables may be served "rare," but most of them, particularly the hot vegetables, need thorough cooking.

Don't allow him to drink water with his meals except in small amounts. Give him all he can drink, however, between meals.

BISHOP TELLS WOMEN TO STAY OUT OF POLITICS

BY ALLENE SUMNER

With the urging of their civic duties upon women at every hand, it is rather surprising to run into some words of exhortation to women to stay out of public life. Such admonition comes from Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington, addressing the Daughters of the King, a woman's organization of the Episcopal church. The bishop says:

"There are, indeed, many admirable women in public life. But the essential duty of the sex lies in the preservation of the standards of the home." He proceeded to warn the women against too much exercise of their civic and political privileges.

DISCOURAGING!

"Use of this privilege can only result in a weakening of the moral fibre of the nation," he explained. "It is the woman's job to preserve a religious atmosphere in her own home."

All of which must be very rewarding to women who thought they were doing this latter work and also, as citizens and voters, working for better schools, better health centers, better playgrounds, better towns and cities and all the things that spell the woman's influence "outside the home."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped rice and mushrooms, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, graham popovers, grape conserve, milk, tea.

DINNER—Hot-pot of hodgepodge, cabbage and pineapple salad, chocolate cream cake, milk, coffee.

GRAPE CONSERVE

Five pounds Concord grapes, 5 pounds sugar, 1 pound seedless raisins, 2 oranges, 1 cup nut meats.

Hickory nuts, pecans or English walnuts are the best nuts to use. Almonds can be used but they must be blanched and shredded.

Wash grapes and pick from stems. Pulp and cook pulp and skins separately. Rub pulp through colander to remove seeds. Put skins, sifted pulp, grated rind and juice of oranges and raisins into the boiling kettle. Bring to the boiling point and slowly stir in sugar. Cook twenty minutes and add nuts. Cook ten minutes longer and put into sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffin when cold.

Plain grape marmalade is very good and is made the same way omitting the raisins, oranges and nuts.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

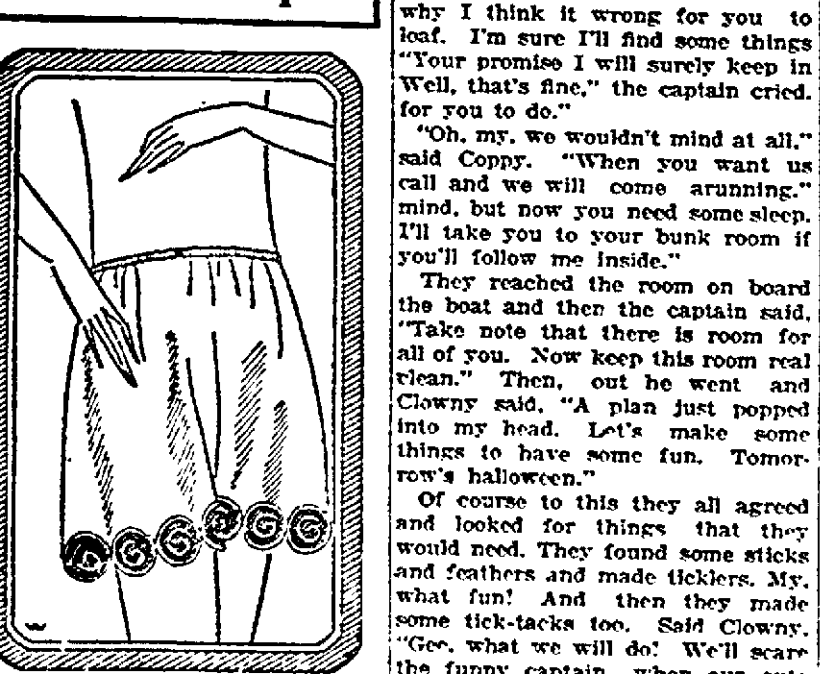

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WELL, well," the burly captain cried. "Now that the whale's dropped over the side and all you little lads are safe, please tell me who you are. I know that you're called Tinymites and that you're out to see the sights. But that's not all there is to know about you lads, by far."

The Tinymites all thought a while.

A Model for Every Mood—
Is Quite The Mode!

When one has occasion to fluff up—this frock will be found most fitting—

Again, should merely wring, disfigure, too, should be in time!

Since fluffs are coming back, they can be all fluffed up in the soft, fluff manner!

I am full like flowering wheat—a fluffing frock is flattering!

And, too, when one is all fluffed up—a gown, like this, will meet the mood!

Pick Time

Prayer Day

THE organization of the joint committee appointed by several Women's Missionary societies of the city, in behalf of the World Day of Prayer sponsored by the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America and the Council of Women for Home Missions, was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, 813 E. Franklin-st.

Nine of the twelve representatives already appointed by their respective societies were present. At present the members of the committee are: from the First Baptist church, Mrs. E. M. Salter, 22 N. Bell-st.; First Congregational, Mrs. A. J. Ingold, 837 E. College-ave; Emanuel Evangelical, Mrs. George Bretrick, 725 N. North Division-st.; First English Lutheran, Mrs. Gus Radtke, 822 N. Fair-ave; Mrs. E. E. Sager, 620 E. North-st.; Trinity English Lutheran church, Mrs. A. Rademacher, 319 N. Harrison-st. and Mrs. G. Tesch, 621 N. Superior-st.; First Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, 813 E. Franklin-st.; Memorial Presbyterian church, Mrs. James A. Wood, 402 E. Washington-st.; All Saints Episcopal church, Mrs. H. S. Gately, 116 N. Drew-st. and Mrs. L. H. Moore, 1105 E. Eldorado-st.; First Reformed church, Mrs. E. P. Franz, 708 E. Hancock-st.

Although a number of these churches had celebrated the day in their own services or by joining with another of their own communion, the sense of the meeting was that Appleton would do well to follow the custom of other cities in Wisconsin, the United States and throughout the world.

It was the opinion of the group that the city would do well to hold an interdenominational service, using the uniform program prepared by the Federation and Council committee, which is sponsored by the mission boards of all the denominations represented. Upon motion it was decided to hold the service on the day appointed, at 2:30 the first Friday in Lent, which is Feb. 15, 1929 and to invite all women interested whether members of these or any missionary societies to hold that hour open in order to attend.

The committee was organized by the election of the following officers and head of committees, which are to be added by the various presidents at the next regular meeting of the auxiliaries. Miss Wilson was elected chairman; Mrs. Franz, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Salter and Mrs. Tesch members of the committee on place and meeting; Mrs. Sager and Mrs. Moore members of publicity committee; Mrs. Bretrick and Mrs. Gately members of committee on program for the day; Mrs. Ingold and Mrs. Radtke members of the committee on music; Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Rademacher, members of the committee on music.

PAPA JOFFRE SPENDS
EVENINGS AT BRIDGEMarshall Enjoys Card Game
Since Injury Confines Him to Home

Louise Joffre, victor of the Marne and now 73 years of age, has become a bridge fan in his retirement here. Bridge is his favorite distraction since a fall injured his knee and obliged him to stay at home.

The Marshall has a few hands of bridge almost every night now with old friends. When he cannot play bridge, he resigns himself to checkers.

Joffre is very much thinner and far from enjoying the robust health of Marshall Foch. He has finished writing his memoirs. But these will not be fully published until after his death and after the death of some of the principal actors in them.

"They are too stark," the old soldier has said.

The victor of the Marne still carries on a certain amount of business. He is chiefly engaged in an advisory capacity on engineering affairs which was his original work.

His enemies are chiefly occupied by the eastern and Alpine defenses of France. Officers still report daily to him before lunch.

DEMOCRATS URGED TO GET OUT EVERY VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

Precinct Workers Enthusiastic as They Enter Last Week of Campaign

Enthusiasm was rampant at the "pop" meeting of Democratic workers at Eagle's hall Tuesday night. More than 200 workers, representing every town, village and city in the county, attended the meeting and received instructions for the final days of the campaign.

Warning the workers that the most important part of their work was to get out every vote in their neighborhood, Gustave Keller, Sr., outlined several methods that can be used. Mr. Keller pointed out that the "stay-at-home" vote option is large enough to decide an election and he urged the workers to continue their efforts to bring out the largest vote ever cast in Outagamie county.

F. J. Rooney, Democratic candidate for district attorney, urged the people to vote the straight Democratic ticket. He said the workers should also conduct a campaign to have other voters vote the straight ticket.

The meeting was opened with "America" and "On the Sidewalks of New York" sung by a trio composed of R. M. Connelly, Martin Van Roy and Lester Balliet.

Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the Outagamie county Democratic club, which sponsored the meeting, told the workers that the committee is doing its best to get out every vote until the polls closed on election night. He announced that James McGillan, mayor of Green Bay and Democratic candidate for congressman from the Ninth district, will speak at Eagle hall here Friday night.

STAGE And SCREEN

"THE CAMERAMAN"

Buster Keaton has extracted comedy from steamships and prize fights, bicycles and a locomotive, but now he has hit upon what, so far, seems to be absolutely the funniest thing in his career. He gets his laughs aided and abetted by a newsreel movie camera of ancient vintage, with three tripod legs that get tangled in everything from the New York subway to a motorboat propeller, landing him in the most comical series of trouble he's ever experienced.

This is the situation in "The Cameraman." Keaton's new Metro Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, which he shows at Fischer's Appleton theatre Thursday afternoon. It is a hilarious succession of trials, tribulations and troubles, with a love romance with pretty Marceline Day on the side and a spectacular Chinatown tangle war with machine gun embellishments for a huge thrill.

"The Cameraman" was directed by Edward Sedgwick, and shows Keaton as an aspiring newsreel man chasing the elusive "story" in New York.

He gets mixed up in a parade and almost arrested, he tries to film a boat race and gets all mixed up with a churning propeller, he's almost drowned, dragged over the streets—then goes to Chinatown, finds himself in a tangle war, hides in a pipe to dodge the bullets and is used for a human battering ram by a Chinese attacking army.

Outside of that it's quite uneventful for Buster—as uneventful as sitting on a can of dynamite and pounding it with a hammer.

Much of the picture was taken in New York, including the scenes at the City Hall, the Yankee Stadium, and in Mayor Jimmy Walker's office. A sensational boat race was staged at Newport for the picture. Harold Goodwin plays the "heavy" role as Stagg, star cameraman, and Buster's rival for Marceline, and Sydney Bracey, Harry Gribbon, and others of note are in the cast.

A complete Chinatown street with five hundred oriental actors marked the big battle scene in the picture, and several thousand appear in the boat race sequences and in the huge street scenes in New York.

"TEMPEST"

"Tempest," the new John Barrymore picture for United Artists at the Elite Theatre for 3 more days, represents the largest financial outlay, the longest production schedule and the greatest striving for popular entertainment in the famous star's screen career.

"Tempest" incidentally answers the plea of thousands of Barrymore's admirers for a picture in a modern setting. After a series of big costume pictures, in which he played romantic characters of hundreds of years ago, Barrymore and his United Artists associates yielded to popular demand and filmed a modern story—a saga of twentieth century Russia.

In "Tempest," the screen and stage idol has the role of a devil-may-care subaltern whose affairs of the heart and sword lead him into some of the strangest adventures of the revolution which swept out czarism, made fugitives out of grand dukes and rulers out of peasants. The early part of "Tempest" depicts all the pomp and luxury of the empire; with the revolution comes the most gripping picture of the making of that national cataclysm.

Barrymore, as a peasant officer who loves a princess, is supported by a cast of hundreds, the principals of which are Louis Wolheim, Camilla Horn, the German star who came to this country to become Barrymore's leading lady George Fawcett, Ulrich Haupt, Boris de Foss, who also came to America from Europe especially to appear with Barrymore; Lena Malena and Albert Conti.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Kane of St. Louis made the long journey to see the picture here. They were accompanied by Misses Beatrice and Vera Kane and Alice Fischer of Manitowish. They were Appleton visitors Tuesday.

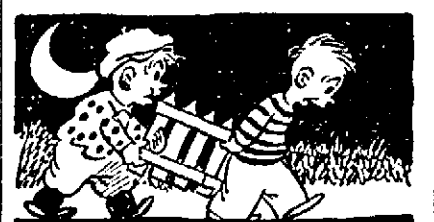

Tries to Drown Five

After she had drowned three of her children, Mrs. Beatrice Canterara of Detroit was prevented by motorists from taking the lives of herself and two other children in the same way. She was holding the two children shown above, Lawrence and Nellie, under water in the Detroit river when motorists rescued them. She had just drowned Mary, three; Anita, two, and Gloria, eight months old.

Spooks Witches Come Into Their Own Tonight

Ghosts, . . . witches, . . . pumpkins, . . . fairies, . . . hobgoblins, . . . yellow moon, . . . cold starry nights, . . . stacked corn, . . . childish pranks, . . . black and yellow crepe paper—the air is saturated with the spirit of Halloween. Tonight is the night, and though the atmosphere has been heavy with weighty discussions of Hoover, Smith, prohibition and the Graf Zeppelin, at the wave of the mysterious wand all will disappear behind a gray veil and the cloak of superstition will wrap itself around all mortals—for one night the world will be gay and shrieking and mad with excitement.

Halloween is really a curious mixture of mythology, Druidic beliefs and Christian superstitions. On Noember first the ancient Romans held a feast in honor of Pomona, goddess of fruits and flowers, and there was always a great display of nuts and apples, representing the winter store of fruits. At this same time the Druids held a great autumn festival to give thanks for the harvest. Bonfires in honor of Baal were lighted, and it was a Druidic belief that on this eve Samon, lord of death, called together all the wicked souls who had been condemned with-

In the past twelve months to inhabit the bodies of animals. The eve of Oct. 31 was originally All Hallow's Eve, or the vigil of Hallowmas. But as it spread to different countries it began to take on a more superstitious tone, until now its chief characteristic is its connection with ghosts, witches and hobgoblins.

In Great Britain family and friends gather around the fireside and consume huge quantities of nuts and apples. Apple-on-a-string, ducking for apples and mapping apples to discover one's future mate are the familiar games played. In Ripon, England, a cake is made for everyone in the household, and consequently the night has become popularly known as Cake Night.

In Scotland originated the custom of eating an apple before a looking-glass to see whom one will marry. In Scotland the custom of eating cabbage-stew still prevails, and often young people go blind-folded into

How To Play Bridge

MIL WORK'S POINTERS ON AUCTION BRIDGE

We conclude today the series of articles on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday Bridge questions which have been running during September and October.

DEAL Z

South Declarer, contract No. Trump: the adversaries have not bid.

To the first trick West leads the Four of Clubs, North (Dummy) plays the Ace, East the Five, and South the Six.

To the second trick, North leads the Tree of Diamonds. East plays the Deuce, South the Queen, and West the King.

QUESTION NO. 50. What cards should be led and played by Declarer from Closed Hand and Dummy to the third trick?

ANSWER BLANK

50. To trick 3, Declarer should lead from Closed Hand and play from Dummy.

(Fill the blank before you read the answer that follows.)

THE ANSWER

50. Declarer should lead the Deuce of Hearts and play the Ace from Dummy.

The play on the second trick has made it almost sure that West has no more Diamonds and that Declarer has the game in hand and need not risk it. West may have had K-10-7 of Diamonds and have played the Ten on the first round as a camouflage, but that is most improbable. If the remaining Diamonds are in the East hand, Declarer is sure of five Diamonds, three Spades, one Heart and one Club. The Heart finesse is tempting because, if it be tried and win, Declarer could make a Grand Slam, but if it lost, it would be to East's King and East would return West's Club lead. Then, if West led Clubs from the King, the adversaries would save game. The game should not be risked to try for a Grand Slam.

MINERS WALLOPED PACKERS IN 1925

Green Bay Team Lost 31 to 0 While on Eastern Trip

Green Bay—Since way back in 1925 Green Bay fans have wished for an opportunity to see the Pottsville Miners aggregation in action for it was this team from the coal regions of Pennsylvania which inflicted on the Packers their worst defeat since the organization some 12 years ago. But the chance appeared to be a remote one as only once since their entry into the National league have the Pottsville aggregation journeyed West and that was two seasons ago when they played the Packers in Chicago.

However, through a fortunate break in the schedule in which Pottsville had an open date on Nov. 4 and 25 and the Packers had Nov. 25 open and the fact that the Cardinals had cancelled their scheduled game with the Packers in Chicago on Nov. 4 gave Captain Lambeau an opportunity and after considerable negotiation with the Pottsville aggregation a home and home series was arranged with the Packers on Nov. 4 Pottsville will play the Packers on the local gridiron while on Nov. 25 the Packers will play at Pottsville.

The Pottsville team is almost a duplicate of the Packer aggregation as far as history is concerned. The team started out almost as a home town aggregation and gradually blossomed out until in 1924 it entered the National league. Next to Green Bay, Pottsville is the smallest city in the league. Included in their lineup this season is Pete Henry, rated as the greatest tackle of all times. Osborne, Wentz and Tony LaTone who have played for several years with Pottsville are among the best in the league and had much to do with the Packers 31 to 0 defeat in 1925.

Every year the Packer management sets aside one day as a sort of homecoming day for the old-time Packer players and this event this season will be held next Sunday. Invitations have been sent out to all of the men who have played with the Packers team as far back as 1913 and a great many of them will be here Sunday for the occasion. Among them are "Jab" Murray, now mayor of Marinette, who wore Packer spangles for several occasions. And then there is "Moose" Gardner who now is a prominent business man of Ashland. And Claude Taugher, now a prominent physician of Milwaukee, will be on hand as well as "Cruby" Howard, who is one of the leading citizens of Mondovi, Wis. Gus Rosenow, the only one-armed player who ever played in a Green Bay uniform and who is now Supt. of Schools at Niagara, Wis., will be there too. And others too numerous to mention will also be on hand to welcome their former teammates and to recall vivid instances of their gridiron careers with the Big Bad Blues.

One of the features of this year's homecoming will be a signal drill staged by two teams of old timers between halves. It is expected that the drill will occasion a lot of amusement for the spectators who figure that some of these "old-timers" are now as good as dead.

spend their declining days in some "old folks" home. However, some of the former stars still think they can prance around as in the days of yore and are anxious to show the fans that they are still there.

YALE COACH EXPLAINS PLAYS TO HIS RIVALS

New Haven, Conn.—Mal Stevens, Yale's young football coach, is a sportsman of the highest type, with a few original ideas about that characteristic.

Having a rather intricate triple pass play which he planned to use against an important rival, Stevens and several coaches went in a huddle before the game and discussed that particular play and others.

"You don't have to tell the other side your secrets," remarked one of the Yale officials.

"Why not?" he asked. "They won't know how the play is made, and I am sure the coaches will keep it to themselves, just as I would under similar conditions."

It might be added that the play was tried, but stopped, not because the opposition stalled it, but because a Yale player went out of bounds.

Northwestern Hopes To Stop Minnesota

Chicago—(P)—The Crimson Tide, that globe trotting eleven from Alabama, will receive its first taste of western conference football Saturday when Wisconsin and Alabama clash at Madison in one of three invasions of big ten circles by non-conference teams.

The game will be Wisconsin's first inter-conference game since 1912 when the then championship Badgers routed Arkansas, 64 to 7.

The Princeton Tiger will stalk in to the lair of Ohio State, and the Pennsylvania Quakers will come west to meet the down-trodden Chicago Maroons.

Neither Princeton nor Ohio State has been defeated this season. Ohio has shown noticeable improvement in every struggle, and the team came out of the Indiana fray in excellent physical shape except for Leo Raskowski, veteran tackle, whose ankle was injured. Barringer, whose injuries he probably will be the only regular not starting Saturday.

Despite four defeats optimism reigns at Michigan, where the Wolverines are preparing for Illinois, so far unbeaten. Fielding Yost appeared on the field Tuesday and shouted

Shieldsmen Must Fight Against Overconfidence

Ships Have Both Smashing and Passing Method of Attack

With the thought of a valley championship gauding them on, Appleton high school gridlers started working Tuesday evening for their next battle, the Maplewood high on Whiting field. The team went through a skullduggery drill Monday and Tuesday's workout was the first of the week.

Manitowoc high has been bumped around the conference by most every school this fall but will be fighting hard to trip the Orange next Saturday. And unless the highs get out about last week's game and center their attention on the coming fracas, gaining themselves for it as they did for Oshkosh, they stand a good chance of losing. Overconfidence has beaten too many teams in football history.

The workout Tuesday evening was confined pretty much to limbering up. The boys were given a half hour of kicking and passing and then were called together while Coach Shields gave them a few new plays. The new formations were pass attacks which Shields figures the men had better learn before another week passes.

The Shipmunks were defeated Saturday by Fond du Lac, a team that played Appleton to a scoreless tie. The score was 13 to 6, a narrow margin and one which does not show the real strength of the Lake Shore team. On several occasions they approached within scoring distance only to fumble and lose their chance to count.

Where the highs had to stop the dashes of Tadych and Barlow last week they have to stop the line smashing tactics of Galbraith, one of the best fullbacks in the conference. During the opening of the season he was the valley high scorer. The Manitowoc style of attack also varies and probably will cause Appleton many moments of suspense. The line plunging tactics which draw the defense in close are often followed by a forward passing attack that may find the highs flatfooted. The Lake shore eleven hurled numerous passes last week to get down within scoring distance.

JACKIE FIELDS BEATS SAM BAKER

Victory Ranks Him as Logical Contender for Dundee's Crown

Los Angeles—(P)—Jackie Fields, with a crushing two round knockout over Sergeant Sammy Baker, New York's rock fisted fighter, clinching a long string of ring conquests, stood first in line at the door of king Joe Dundee's welterweight domain Wednesday.

To his home town folks, before 20,000 of whom he had forward the hard punching Baker into insensibility for four minutes and 20 seconds last night, Fields theoretically was the champion of the welterweights.

Fields recently whipped Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, just a short time after the latter had scored a quick knockout over Dundee in a non-title fight in the east. His victory over Baker, whom New York boxing authorities ranked as the division's chief challenger, was regarded as conclusive proof here that he is the best of the welterweights.

LAWRENCE HARRIERS PREPARE FOR RIPON

Flashed with the success of their race against Lake Forest Saturday, but not overconfident, Lawrence elks legs vary harriers are galloping over the track at Whiting field in preparation for a race against Ripon at Ripon Saturday. Probably the same men who went on last week's trip will be picked to meet the Redmen Saturday. They were Capt. Barlow, Menning, Mueller, Jesse and Barlow. Jesse was the first man across the tape.

VAUDEVILLE WANTS HIM

Russ Crane, Illinois' All-American guard, is such a good singer that he has been offered contracts to appear on the vaudeville stage.

A search for Illinois' missing punch, apparent in the Northwestern game last week, has been made by Coach Zupke this week.

A. A. Slag's thirty seventh Chicago football team may be down but it is never out. The "Old Man" is preparing for the Pennsylvania Quakers as if his Maroons were on the bottom of the percentage ladder.

Northwestern will introduce two distinct back field units Saturday in its attempt to break through Minnesota's powerful line at Dyche stadium. Coach Hanley intends to start one combination of regular backs, then relieve them and give another set of erstwhile regulars a chance.

Bill Griffin, 155-pound sophomore whose work against Illinois was worthy of mention, probably will get a selection on the regular quartet.

"Doc" Spears is trying to find a suitable substitute for Bronko Nagurski, his crippled full back. It is doubtful if Minnesota's giant will be able to play, and Coach Spears will then probably rely upon Farmer or Westphal.

For the first time since Harry Kipke made the All-American team in 1921, Michigan hasn't a player this year who is likely to receive that coveted football honor.

MURRAY PROTESTS ACTION OF REFEREE IN REFUSING KICK

Milwaukee—(P)—Declaring he was unable to find even the slightest justification in the rules for Referee James Keegan's decision in refusing to allow Marquette university to try for point after touchdown in the 6 to 6 tie game with Holy Cross last Saturday, Coach Frank J. Murray of the Marquette team has set forth his ideas on the subject in a letter to W. R. Oleson, commissioner of eastern football officials.

Keegan ruled that Marquette consumed more than the allotted 30 seconds in getting ready for the placekick, and took the ball away from center and declared that the team had forfeited its chance for the point. Coach Murray says the rule book called for a 5-yard penalty.

The referee argued that he had instructions to hurry play along at all costs.

DOEHLING SHAKES LINEUP FOR VIKES

Redmen Expect to Have Trouble With Bloomer and Barfell

Ripon—A washday rest seemed to be everything Ripon's Redmen needed before opening the week's preparation for Coach Rasmussen's Vikings in Saturday's homecoming attraction. The Doeblings engaged in a brief but spirited workout Tuesday night, with the aerial defense occupying needed prominence in a half hour scrimmage against the yearlings.

Threatening to replace several regulars for the Lawrence clash unless they demonstrate abundant improvement over the unsatisfactory showing in the Carroll reversal, the Ripon opener opened a series of line experiments in a final effort to coordinate the forwards with his feet backs.

Not since the victorious Chicago opener has the Crimson backfield come into its own. The wall candidates will come in for very special attention before the Viking tilt. Stan Hanks, 190-pound guard, former Wauwatosa fullback, was used in the secondary defense tonight, while several left flank positions were tried in the scrimmage.

Although Lawrence could not clip Beloit's claws in Saturday's Little Four opener, Rasmussen's gridlers, nevertheless, are expected to crowd the Redmen with an aerial attack, which has proved an important factor in the Viking's early games. In Bloomer and Capt. Barfell, the new Lawrence coach offers trouble for the weak Crimson line.

VIKES SCRIMMAGE, RAZZ SEEKS QUARTER

Varsity A and B Squads Battle Away for an Hour Tuesday

Like Diogenes in search of an honest man, Coach Rasmussen of Lawrence college is searching his football squad for a quarterback. Coach Rasmussen searched in day light Tuesday until it became so dark a lantern was needed, and then he gave up deciding that he too might be searching throughout the ages if he continued using artificial light.

Tuesday evening's workout of the Viking eleven was one long scrimmage of the varsity firsts against the varsity seconds and while all the men received a workout the main purpose to see what Charley Barnes and Bruce McInnis could do at handling a team. Both men are being considered possible leaders for Saturday because grape vine information has brought back the report that Fran Bloomer's leg is not healing. Scrimmage again is booked for Wednesday evening.

It's a changed Lawrence lineup that will take the field against the Redmen Saturday. Ehrlert probably will be playing guard in Voeck's place. Bickell at tackle for Krohn and Rasmussen in the backfield in place of Brusatt. However, of the three men only Bickell can be sure of his job. Tuffy Vincent may be at guard while Paul Gelpke has been showing great class as a ball carrier and may get his chance against the Crimson.

Vodder, who has been used as a utility man for the last two or three weeks again has wandered out to the backfield and may be found there Saturday. He can be used as a lineman too, if the necessity arises.

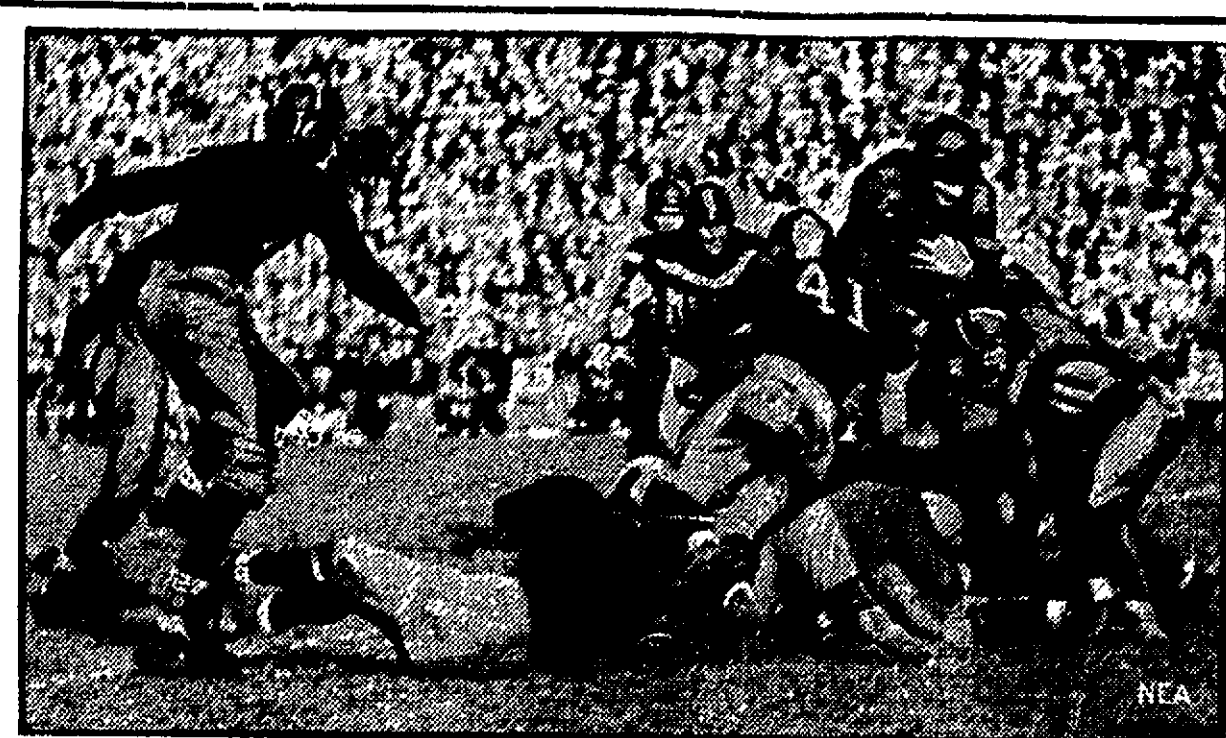

ROLL HIGH SCORES ON ELK CLUB ALLEYS

J. Guilfoyle rolled the high score at Elk alleys Tuesday evening when he chalked up a 205 for a single game and 543 for high match. He bowls with the Riverside league. Ellen Dunn had high match score for Elk Ladies Tuesday evening, with 520 pins while L. Dunn had high individual score with a 192.

NO CHANCE THIS YEAR

For the first time since Harry Kipke made the All-American team in 1921, Michigan hasn't a player this year who is likely to receive that coveted football honor.

IRRESISTIBILITY VERSUS IMMOVABILITY

You've heard that old wheeze about an irresistible force meeting an immovable object—well, that's what's happened at Iowa City recently when Minnesota played Iowa. Neither Bronko Nagurski nor Mayes McLain, the big line-plungers, got away with much during the game. Here is a glimpse of Nagurski, ramming the Iowa line. You can see how far he went from the human mountain piled up in front of him. The big guy with No. 41 on his back is Schleusner, Iowa tackle, who is one of the best in his section this year.

Alabama Fears Cold More Than Badger Grid Team

Coach Wade Has Tackle to Tackle Line Averaging 200 Pounds

University, Ala.—(P)—When the Crimson Tide of the University of Alabama comes north for its inter-sectional game with the University of Wisconsin football team Saturday, Coach Wallace Wade will bring 12 veterans on the squad of 18 regulars.

With the team, several hundred rosters are expected to make the trip from the Sunny South to Madison, Wis., to meet the Badgers. Coach Wade believes it can do justice in the football game, but has apprehensions as to climatic conditions. Reports tell that Madison temperatures have been near the freezing mark, while football generally is played in the thirties and in the eighties.

To date, Wade's warriors have won three and lost one game, the latter being attributed to overconfidence. It came in the form of a 15 to 13 set back at the hands of Tennessee, and was a hectic contest, both teams scoring in the first two minutes of play. Victories hung by a hair's breadth over the University of Mississippi, a 46 to 0 victory over Mississippi A. and M., and a 42 to 12 triumph over Sewanee last Saturday.

Earl Smith, a veteran of three years, who is a six-footer from Halesville, Ala., is captain of the team and plays end. He is rated as a southern conference leader in the line. Opposite him, a sophomore from Anniston, Ala., James Moore, a six foot one inch man, and Sherman Deal a veteran 175 pound end from Elmyria, may play. Deal is five feet 11 inches tall.

Tackles, rated as the most powerful in the southern conference, are Charles (Foots) Clement, a six foot two-inch giant weighing 205 pounds from Rome, Ark., who is a sophomore; Freddie Sington, Birmingham, Ala., a six foot one inch tall and weighing 200 pounds; Mott Smith, Birmingham veteran, who is six feet four inches tall and weighs 206 pounds, and McRight, another giant. Clement and Sington have been getting

Student Publication Decries Lack of Support for Team

Madison—(P)—The Crimson Tide rolled thundering into shore in the form of Alabama football plays Tuesday night but three Wisconsin teams were concrete breakers and threw them harmlessly back.

Alabama, impersonated by the freshmen, started suspiciously and made sizeable gains with their deceptive spinner and off tackle plays. However, when the varsity started to fathom the attack the freshman backs were stopped.

Ken Pinegar, Marinette star half back of the 'B' squad, was transferred and worked with the varsity for the first time last night. Meanwhile the Daily Cardinal, student newspaper, was waging war upon the indolent lukewarm student attitude and plans were being made for a mass meeting to be held Friday night. In a front page editorial, the student organ decried the Wisconsin spirit and pointed out the apathy at sendoffs and meetings of the team, and then cried for a new student loyalty. It was pointed out that less than 50 persons had sent the varsity on its way to Purdue and only 100 were at the station before the Michigan victory.

The editorial further assailed poor cheering even though the varsity is the best football team Wisconsin has had in years. The editorial carried the signature of Hampton Randolph, Milwaukee, a senior and managing editor of the paper.

At the mass meeting the university band will play. Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, Captain Rube Wagner, and Arlie Mucks are among the speakers.

IT'S A NICE PERCENTAGE
Sixty-two students, from a total enrollment of 285, are out for football at Trinity College in New York this year.

YOU'LL HERE MORE LATER
Hoot Ellis, Yale substitute back, ran 85 yards to a touchdown in the Brown game. He will be heard of plenty this season.

TO PLAY IN HONOLULU
University of Denver has accepted an invitation of the University of Honolulu to play a football game at Honolulu on Dec. 15.

FAST ON THE BASES
Wally Shaner, rookie outfielder bought by the Reds this year, showed plenty of speed on the bases in the Southern League this year. He pilfered 27 bases.

Cost $75,000

One of the first moves made by Buckey Harris in his new job as manager of the Detroit Tigers was the purchase of Roy Johnson, shown here, from the San Francisco baseball club. The purchase price was reported to be $75,000. This young outfielder chalked up a .359 batting average in the Pacific Coast League this summer.

JOIE RAY DEFEATS ARABIAN RUNNER

Finishes Four and Half Laps Ahead in Race to Redeem Self

Philadelphia—(AP)—Joie Ray, veteran American runner, was back at the head of the class Wednesday and with another record tucked away among his souvenirs.

El Quasi, the slender French-Algerian marathon winner at Amsterdam, fell victim to Ray's flying feet Tuesday night in a 16-mile indoor race which the American clicked off in one hour, 27 minutes and 15 seconds. Ray's time for 15 miles was one hour, 22 minutes and five seconds, which was announced as a new indoor record. El Quasi was four and one half laps behind Ray at the finish, approximately one third of a mile.

Ray's victory was not unexpected after the first few miles had slipped away under his pattering feet. "Chesty" Joie, beaten in New York two weeks ago on an indoor track, was out to run his two-time conqueror into the ground.

THREE IN THIS RACE
All-America fullback honors for this year, according to most critics, will go to either Hoffman of Stanford, Nagurski of Minnesota or McLain of Iowa, with Hoffman having the choice.

ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATES
Officials at West Point think that Chris Cagle, halfback, and Bud Sprague, tackle, are worthy candidates for All-America honors.

BOYS EARN $44,379 OUTSIDE OF SCHOOL

Annual Earnings of Vocational Students Would Cover Annual Expenses

One hundred and fifty-seven boys of the Appleton Vocational school employed in outside jobs earn $44,379 a year. This is sufficient to cover all expenses of conducting the school during the year, according to Herb Helling, director.

The average salary is 25½ cents an hour or $174.55 a day, according to the report. One hundred and three boys are working at regular jobs which they expect to keep, and only four have expressed a desire to change jobs.

Ninety girl students of the school are employed, and 55 do not want to work for wages. Three have asked for factory work. Most of the girls are doing housework in private homes, and some are employed as part time office girls, according to M. Helling.

"DUK DUK" UNDER SCRUTINY
Whether the "duk duk" secret society of the natives of New Britain will survive depends on the result of the investigation being made by E. W. Pearson, Chinney, Government. Anthropologist of the Mandated Territory. Reports that a native had been killed and eaten by the "duk duk" have been found baseless. The investigation was started last May, the time of the annual "duk duk" festival on Mitup Island, which Chinney witnessed. He was welcomed to the feast and presented a fathom of native money, but refused to partake of the mess of mixed taro, coconut paste, fish and gallop. He also saw the ceremonies of throwing betel nuts, the offering of a sacrifice and the burning of the elaborate "duk duk" dress, which is a form of blessing performed by an aged native. It is said that the society has abandoned blackmail and cannibalism.

Our Presidents

Warren Gamaliel Harding, Republican and the twenty-eighth president of the United States, was born in the small town of Corsica, Ohio. He studied at Ohio Central College and in 1891 was married to Miss Florence Kling. Soon after leaving school he became connected with The Star, a newspaper at Marion, O., and for many years was its owner and editor.

Harding successively was state senator, lieutenant - governor and United States senator. He served from 1915 to 1921 in the Senate.

Harding called a conference of the leading nations of the world, at Washington, to consider reducing the navies.

While on a trip to visit Alaska and the West, President Harding died, Aug. 2, 1923. He was succeeded by Vice President Calvin Coolidge. At the time of Harding's death, Coolidge was visiting at his father's home in Vermont. He took the oath of office in a little room of the plain rural home, lighted with a kerosene lamp.

WANT 500 MEMBERS FOR RED CROSS IN NEW LONDON DRIVE

$219 Raised for Relief Work—New Campaign Funds to Be Used in Emergency

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A total of $219, an amount somewhat below the mark set by divisional headquarters of the Red Cross in St. Louis, has been raised by popular subscription for the local Red Cross society. This was announced by F. L. Zaag, treasurer of the local society. The money was not raised by a canvass of the city, and has already been sent on for work in the stricken regions of the recent hurricane in Florida and Porto Rico.

A membership drive of this city and the outlying community will be sponsored soon by the local Red Cross. It is desired to obtain 500 memberships of one dollar each, a half of this money to be held in reserve in the treasury here and the remainder sent on to the divisional headquarters. Money held in the local reserve is used during annual relief in homes of the unfortunate.

REGARDLESS of how fashionably dressed you are, remember that a pretty frock will not overcome the handicap of red or chapped hands, cracked lips or a coarse texture to the skin of the arms and shoulders," said a fashion expert recently. To the first half-million new Ford owners

TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy-riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of upkeep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

5 BIG STATES ARE SURE TO GIVE VOTE TO HERBERT HOOVER

Democrats Might Win Election Easily if They Could Break into This Group

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of seven stories outlining the political situation as the campaign draws to a close.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Pennsylvania has 38 electoral votes, Ohio 24, Indiana 15, Illinois 23, and Michigan 15, a total of 121.

Here is a solid group of populous states accustomed to voting the Republican ticket in a presidential year. Most impartial calculators believe Hoover will carry them.

The Democrats might win the election, even if they all remained solidly Republican, but their task would be comparatively simple if they could break into that bloc. They insist they will and they may, but the "dope" is that they won't.

As usual, in this series, we find ourselves thinking of what happened in 1920 and 1924 and trying to figure out just what Smith can take away from Hoover. Politics is full of too many uncertainties for anyone to accept the assurance that the five states now in discussion are certain for anyone, despite their enormous Republican majorities in the recent past.

If Smith carries any one of them, it probably will be Illinois, although his managers seem to be surprisingly optimistic about Pennsylvania.

His Illinois hopes are based on the likelihood that he will carry Cook county and the possibility that farmers' discontent downstate will prove extensive enough to keep down the G. O. P. majorities outside Chicago. It is predicted that the state ticket will run far ahead of the national ticket, but Smith has a long way to go to wipe out the $76,000 plurality which Coolidge had over Davis four years ago. The Coolidge plurality over the combined Davis-La Follette vote was about half as large.

The death of Boss George Brennan was a blow for Smith. It hasn't been demonstrated yet that there was anyone in Chicago half able enough to step into his shoes. Shortly before Brennan's death there was a rumor about that he had made some sort of a deal with the Republicans by which Smith would be the beneficiary. At any rate, Brennan was heart and soul for Smith, and his continued leadership would have brought more brains, money and effort into the Illinois contest than appears to have been used.

It may seem curious that whereas not a single Republican leader in Illinois was out for Hoover before the Kansas City convention, they have all been shouting loudly for him this fall. There is or has been a G. O. P. factional fight in Illinois, but it hasn't been allowed to impede the national campaign. There would now be not the slightest question about Illinois if the state were not wet, partly agricultural and possessed of a large Chicago negro vote, normally Republican, but this year split.

If Chairman Raskob's claim for Pennsylvania is well based, Raskob must know something that few others know. The Coolidge plurality over Davis was about a million and even if Smith gets the 300,000 La Follette votes of 1924, it seems to the ordinary observer too much to overcome. Hardly anyone questions, of course, that Smith will do much better in Pennsylvania than either Cox or Davis did.

The Democrats fired their Philadelphia city chairman, who was accused

Rose Ponselle Coming

This is Rosa Ponselle, one of the world's greatest dramatic sopranos, who will give a concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel on March 8 as the final number of the Community Artist Series.

ROSA PONSELLE, FAMOUS SOPRANO WILL SING HERE

Critics Say Artist "Has Loveliest Voice of Any Woman on Stage"

Rosa Ponselle, the world's greatest dramatic soprano, who will appear in Appleton March 8 as the final number of the Community Artist Series, is perhaps the most expensive single number the management has ever brought to Appleton. According to the New York World she has "the loveliest voice of any woman on the stage, and she is the only woman in the Metropolitan who is faithfully carrying on the traditions of beautiful singing as exemplified in the old days by singers like Eames, Melba, Nordica and Sembrich."

Appleton is fortunate to have the opportunity of hearing Miss Ponselle because her time free from the Metropolitan Opera contract is now completely booked, as it has been season after season. Last year, in addition to her 30 appearances at the Metropolitan Opera in New York, Miss Ponselle sang 44 concerts. Some idea of the great demand that exists for this great soprano's recitals is suggested in the fact that at the time the contract for her local appearance was signed more than 20 contracts already had been made for concert engagements year after next.

FAMOUS IN OPERA

Miss Ponselle is chosen by the Metropolitan authorities for some of the most difficult and important roles of the opera season. An instance of this is the revival of Bellini's "Norma" last season, a part so difficult that the Metropolitan waited thirty-five years after Lilli Lehmann's performance before they found another voice in the opera family worthy of taking it.

Church-goers in Miss Ponselle's native town, Meriden, Conn., were the first to recognize her extraordinary voice. Then patrons of the towns little nickel motion theatre where she played the piano and occasionally sang had the opportunity to appreciate the beauty of her voice. Next came the chance to sing in a New Haven hotel dining room. A discerning theatrical manager finally discovered that she was far ahead of this type of work, and it was not long before vaudeville audiences from coast to coast were applauding her.

It was during those days that the late Enrico Caruso heard Miss Ponselle, and he was so impressed with her remarkable talent that he urged her to prepare for an operatic career. Within six months after she stopped singing in vaudeville she stepped onto the stage of the Metropolitan Opera to sing the leading role of "La Forza del Destino" opposite Caruso. This was her first

Drug Store Cl Foolish Questions

"Two ham sandwiches," "Two special delivery stamps please," "Two malted milks," "Two films, please," "Are my pictures ready," and hundreds of similar orders are put in at our modern drug stores today. If you really desire to ask a foolish question, ask a local druggist how many articles he handles in his store.

Postage stamps, purses, cigarettes, sundries, cigars, kodaks, post cards, dinners, fireworks toys cosmetics, magazines, souvenirs, pictures, books, candy cars, lighters, bill folds, golf balls and clubs, and hundreds of other smaller articles not included under the regular pharmaceuticals, are available at the modern drug store.
